Mr. Chuck Matthews
Director, HHSA
County of San Diego

Dear Mr. Matthews,

Live Well San Diego is a bold vision for community health that empowers nonprofits to come together, local government to lead, and companies to get involved. The vision recognizes our shared purpose, the capacity of strategic partnerships, and the power of bottom-up engagement to achieve critically important results. 1to1 Movement is proud to support this vision, and eager to join the coalition of partners working to cultivate opportunities for all people and communities to grow, connect, and enjoy the highest quality of life.

Now in its 5th year, 1to1 Movement has reached over 26,500 students with a spectrum of innovative, and experiential, environmental education initiatives. 1to1 Movement believes in building a positive, inclusive, and accessible entryway into the conversation on conservation. Through the development of consensus-based relationships, 1to1 Movement is able to engage individuals whom otherwise felt little connection to the environmental movement. With a focus on using authentic and experiential approaches to address issues important to San Diego, like developing a more equitable food system and reducing excessive waste, 1to1 Movement is rethinking environmental education and engagement.

1to1 Movement has identified local food systems as an area of opportunity in the sustainability and community health space. Students across the country aren't touching, tasting, and smelling real food. STACKED: A Mobile Learning Farm leverages the expertise of 1to1 Movement, and its strategic partners, in inquiry-based learning, design, cause marketing, and permaculture. STACKED is a mobile classroom that will engage schools and communities that otherwise don't have access to curated learning opportunities in food systems, health, and nutrition.

1to1 Movement is committed to helping build a thriving San Diego, and looks forward to accessing opportunities, forging strategic partnerships, and achieving collective impact, upon the foundation built by the County of San Diego and Live Well San Diego vision.

Sustainably,

Jonathan Zaidman
Co-Founder and Executive Director
